Grilling Fails To Weaken Mrs. Snyder on Stand

In Her Fight Against Severe Examination of Lawyers Seeking to Find Her to the Chair—Again Places Her on Stand

Queens County Court House, New York, May 2 (AP).—For three hours this morning Mrs. Ruth Snyder fought from the witness stand against the grilling examination of two lawyers seeking to send her to the electric chair for the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, art editor.

One lawyer represented the state and the other acted for Henry Judd Gray, Mrs. Snyder's co-defendant, who she says is solely guilty, just as he lays the entire blame on her. But for one brief flourish of tears, the blonde widow was in command of herself.

When court adjourned for lunch she was still on the stand under questioning by the state.

Placed Blame on Gray.

During her examination Mrs. Snyder had outlined her version of the crime, laying the entire blame on Gray.

Gray was braver and more lively than on any day since the trial opened. He held his head erect and whispered with his counsel as Mrs. Snyder testified. The witness had herself a lively hand and spoke with cool assurance.

Hazleton completed his examination and William Millard, for Gray, began cross-examination.

"Why did you put a quart of white under the pillow on your mother's room on the night of the murder?"

"Because he asked me to."

"Did you receive a sackweight from Gray on March 5?"

"Yes."

"What did you do with it?"

"I put it in the cellar."

"Why?"

"Because I was going to give it back to him."

"Did you believe that was to be used in killing your husband?"

"I didn't know."

"Why, if you knew he was going to use it to kill your husband, did you give it back to him?"

"I didn't want anything that Judd Gray gave me."

"Did you want your husband?"

"No."

"Why?"

"I thought I could argue Judd Gray out of his plan and avert any trouble at all."

"When you went to a card party that night, why did you leave the back door open?"

"Because I wanted to see him and end everything between us."

"Did you get your husband drunk at the party?"

"I did not."

"Did you try to?"

"No."

"Try to get Judd Gray drunk?"

"No."

"What was your husband's condition when you got home?"

"Normal."

"Isn't it true that when you went to that party you knew what was going to happen?"

"No, I fully intended to get rid of Judd Gray forever before he should do what he did do."

"Why did Judd Gray go to your house the night of March 19?"

"He was going home for the weekend and away the next week."

"Had he ever been in your mother's room before while Albert Snyder was in the house?"

Lena Threw a Lamp at Herbert

It Struck Him in Side of Neck, Inflicting a Gash That Had To Be Sewed Up—Schoonmaker Got Drunk and Abused Family—Other Police Court Cases.

Lena Gardiner, a negro, became intoxicated Saturday evening and picking up a lamp, she hurled it at Herbert Miller while they were both in the Miller home at the Staples brick yard on North street. The lamp struck Herbert in the side of the neck and at the Kingston City Hospital three stitches were required to close the wound. The police were called and Lena was placed under arrest.

This morning in police court in reply to questions by Judge Shufeldt the negro said that she was drunk. "That's no plea," said the judge. "Go guilty," said Lena.

She was fined $15. Her fine was paid.

Schoonmaker Was Drunk.

Saturday evening Mrs. Harry Schoonmaker of 41 Ravine street called at police headquarters and said her husband was intoxicated and she was afraid to remain in the house with him with their four children. Police were sent back to her home with her and found Schoonmaker in the street and placed him under arrest.

This morning Mrs. Schoonmaker appeared in court with the two youngest children, one a baby in arms, and after hearing her story Judge Shufeldt decided that Schoonmaker, who has a steady job, needed all his wages to support and clothe his family, and instead of fining him sentenced him to ten days in the county jail, but suspended the serving of the sentence provided Schoonmaker behaved himself.

Other Cases.

Thomas Hughes, arrested on Spring street on Saturday night on a charge of public intoxication, was also given a suspended jail sentence of ten days.

Robert Charters of Nyack, arrested for driving past a trolley car discharging passengers, forfeited ten dollars bail for failure to appear in court.

Richard Adin, who had arrested Kozminski Gunkel on a charge of reckless driving, withdrew the charge and the latter was discharged.

Why?

"I thought I could argue Judd Gray out of his plan and avert any trouble at all."

"When you went to a card party that night, why did you leave the back door open?"

"Because I wanted to see him and end everything between us."

"Did you get your husband drunk at the party?"

"I did not."

"Did you try to?"

"No."

"Try to get Judd Gray drunk?"

"No."

"What was your husband's condition when you got home?"

"Normal."

"Isn't it true that when you went to that party you knew what was going to happen?"

"No, I fully intended to get rid of Judd Gray forever before he should do what he did do."

"Why did Judd Gray go to your house the night of March 19?"

"He was going home for the weekend and away the next week."

"Had he ever been in your mother's room before while Albert Snyder was in the house?"

"No."

"Why did you arrange for him to go there that time then?"

"He drugged him."

"But you succeeded?"

"Yes."

"Why should Gray want to kill Albert Snyder?"

"For the insurance my husband carried."

"But you were the beneficiary. He could only get the money through you."

"That is true, but he knew how to get money from me. He had done it frequently."

"Insurance is the only motive you can think of?"

"Yes."

Red Cross Needs More Money Now

Several Churches Adopt Secretary Hoover's Suggestion for Special Collection and Others Will Do So Next Sunday.

In response to the special appeal in Saturday's issue of The Freeman, and following out the suggestion of Secretary Hoover, the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross is ready to report additional subscriptions since Saturday. Secretary Hoover's suggestion was for a ten cent special collection to be taken in the churches; several such collections were taken while some churches decided to take such a collection next Sunday.

The Ulster County Chapter is glad to be able to send on this additional money at once, for while more money is going daily to those suffering so greatly in the flooded districts, there are new needs arising daily from some newly flooded community.

Money Needed, Not Clothing.

A number of inquiries have been received by Mr. Oughetree, treasurer of the local Red Cross, asking if clothing is needed in the present emergency. Those who have clothing to donate should bear in mind that the national organization is not at the present time desirous of receiving clothing from local chapters and is not in a position to use such clothing contributions to advantage. Local chapters have been notified to hold in readiness any supplies which they now have on hand and in case they can be used later ship them when notified.

In the present flood emergency in the Mississippi valley money contributions are needed for immediate relief. Later when the flood has subsided and it is possible to use clothing, contributions may be solicited through local chapters. At the present time they can not be used to advantage.

The national organization has notified all local chapters not to make any shipments of clothing at this time.

The following additional contributions are acknowledged:

Red Cross Asks $10,000,000 for Flood Sufferers

New Breaks With Undoubtedly Create Much More Disaster, Reports Hoover—Relief Forces Moving Faster Than Racing Waters to Strike People.

Washington, May 2 (AP).—On recommendation of Secretary Hoover, the American Red Cross today asked the people of the United States to contribute a minimum of $10,000,000 to relieve the suffering in the Mississippi river flood area.

"The situation still is very serious," Mr. Hoover said. "Everything depends on how the levees hold. The new breaks reported undoubtedly will create much more disaster."

A detailed report on conditions throughout the zone would be given to President Coolidge as soon as possible, declared Mr. Hoover, who was dispatched to the flood zone to assist expansion of the Red Cross relief organization. Fuller discussion of conditions and possible further governmental cooperation will be afforded by the regular cabinet meeting tomorrow.

The secretary was not prepared to say how long he would remain in the flooded region. His return to Washington was primarily to deliver an address to Latin-American commercial delegates in convention here. James L. Fieser, acting chairman of the Red Cross, who accompanied the secretary on his inspection of the river and relief work from Memphis to the Gulf, returned with him. He was not certain whether he would remain here.

Relief Forces Move Fast.

Memphis, Tenn., May 2 (AP).—Moving faster than the racing waters, relief forces today threw out lines of succor in newly flooded areas of northern and central Louisiana or awaited emergencies in districts certain to be inundated by the record crest of the Mississippi valley flood.

Meanwhile, in southeastern Arkansas and in the Mississippi delta the work of rescuing marooned people, transporting them to refuge camps and packing food supplies and medical provisions continued by train, boat and airplane.

Six airplanes have arrived here to augment the large number now in the field, and others were rushing to strategic points from Memphis to New Orleans, while in the lower Mississippi the concentration of the largest fleet of relief vessels in the history of the valley was rapidly being accomplished.

Evacuation of cities and parishes with grave warnings of a danger of being swamped by the flood, refugees camps, while boats hovered in the vicinity of villages and farming communities, where the inhabitants stubbornly refused to leave their belongings. These latter will be moved quickly should their lives become imperiled, relief workers said, although many of the refugees declare the obduracy of those who would stick out the flood may cost more lives.

Additional Supplies Hurried.

To meet the new emergency created by the breaking of levees in northern Louisiana and by the muddy waters pouring down from Arkansas the Red Cross established new concentration centers in Monroe, Delhi, Bastrop, Lake Providence and Oak Grove, La. Additional personnel and supplies were hurried by boat and plane. Estimates were here that the present army of refugees will be increased by nearly 50,000 if other threatened levees fail to hold.

Although their present task is temporary succor of the marooned and homeless, relief workers have begun planning for the labor of rehabilitation which will follow the recession of the waters. Under the direction of the Red Cross and state government agencies, rehabilitation of the refugees will be accomplished through the county chapters of the Red Cross, it has been announced by Henry M. Baber, national director of disaster relief. While these plans are going forward the medical division of the Red Cross is concentrating an array of health forces, drawing on 14 outside states to augment the well organized personnel of the seven states in the flood area.

Y. W. C. A. Drive $700 Over the Top

Enthusiasm Rampant When Workers Find Their Efforts Resulted in Securing $9,283.06—Drive Was For $8,500.

It's all over, even the shouting, at the Y. W. C. A., but the good feeling that prompted that shouting on Saturday evening will last a long time, while the $9,300 raised will do much for the girls of this city the coming year.

The invocation at the last meeting was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the First Reformed Church.

It was a good supper served by the faithful and efficient supper committee, but everybody was as "Mickey" McLaughlin said, "Too excited and nervous" to scarcely know what they were eating.

"Mickey" added to her laurels as a song leader Saturday night, by proving herself a positively explosive cheer leader. An especial song, invented for the occasion, was sung to Mrs. Rice, who deserved all and more than the girls sang to her as campaign manager, and then she was lustily cheered. Like the good fellow that she is she took off her hat to the workers—she literally did—and then included Miss Estey in her song as having been her tutor. Then there were hearty cheers for the two secretaries, Miss Lichty and Miss Yerxa, and for on-the-job "Billy" Herdman, clerk of the Y. W. C. A. Catherwood, guardian of the campaign cards; for the directors and the publicity secretary; when up sprang Mrs. Staples with a ringing cheer for "Mickey," their song leader.

Thanks for Everybody.

While they were getting their breath once more, Mrs. Rice, in behalf of the directors, thanked all of the team captains, the workers, the tireless supper committee, the press of the city for its generous space in The Freeman for its helpful editorial, George Burgevin for the flowers which he had contributed to the prize each evening for the workers, having the most subscribers; each and every member of the clergy, and each and every speaker throughout the campaign, for their inspiring and helpful words, and the subscribers who had made it possible for them to rejoice as they were rejoicing.

Captain Fowler a Prophet.

There was only one speaker, Captain Everett Fowler, who brought forth a shout of laughter as he said "Now I am not going to get excited, as though he could help it in that crowd. He said he was not going to make a speech, but only congratulate the teams on their splendid cooperative work in carrying the campaign 'over the top'—the results had not yet been announced—for he knew that was what they would do, though he had not talked with a single team captain. Captain Fowler closed with a quotation that was a wonderful tribute to the nobility and best kind of womanhood, which is just what the Y. W. C. A. stands for.

Prophecy Comes True.

Adding machines are all right in their places, but they are slow compared to the mental processes of enthusiastic campaign workers like those at the Y. W. C. A. and some seconds before the leader announced the sum total there went up a shout, and a cheer for Captain Fowler's prophecy was fulfilled and in much greater measure than the workers had dared to hope for with the Red Cross making its desperately urgent appeal.

The Sowers went to Miss Woolley of Team II who brought in 12 subscriptions, and the Higginson silver loving cup to Team IV, Mrs. Frank Thompson and Miss Minnie Millard, chairman, for bringing in the largest amount of money, and their names will be engraved on the cup in due time.

Colorado Freed From Giant Reef

Battle-ship Colorado Wins In 35 Hour Battle With the Aid of Highest Tide—Examine Hull For Strained Plates.

New York, May 2 (AP).—The mighty battleship Colorado today stood victor over treacherous Diamond Reef in a 35 hour battle which is estimated to have cost the government $1,500 an hour.

The 32,000 ton super-dreadnought, which grounded on the reef, just off the Battery, Saturday while en route to the Brooklyn navy yard on her arrival with the Atlantic fleet, was freed last night by the combined efforts of four mine sweepers, fourteen tugs and an unusually high tide.

An examination of the hull of the $27,000,000 ship was to be made at the navy yard drydock today, navy officers having expressed the belief that the ship plates may have been strained or have buckled because of the tremendous weight of the vessel when resting on the reef.

Before the successful pull was started thousands of tons of oil, ammunition and other stores were removed. The work of floating the ship was begun shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning and she finally glided into deep water at 8:15 o'clock last night.

Naval authorities were unwilling to comment on the possible cause of the grounding, but at Washington it was reported that a court of inquiry would be ordered by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet. Naval charts showed the Colorado lay 300 feet south of the regular ship channel on 23 feet, between Governor's Island and the Battery. The channel is 500 feet wide and 40 feet deep at high water.

Last night's tide was the highest of the month and it presented the best chance for the rescue. Had the third attempt failed it might have been necessary to wait until June for a similar high tide, dismantling the battleship meanwhile.

As the Colorado moved from the reef a cheer went up from her decks and there was an answering shout from shore, where thousands of spectators lined the Battery wall. The crew had been denied shore leave until the ship was safely off the rocks and had taken completely pumping out a store of 2,000 tons of fuel oil and removing more than a thousand shells, each weighing 2,400 pounds.

Former Troopers' Head Suicides

Dr. William Linn, Commander of First Troop of State Constabulary, Blames Threat in Presence of Wife and Children.

Garrison, N. Y., May 2 (AP).—Dr. William Linn, 37, formerly of New York, and at one time called the "best looking soldier in America," has died here today. He slashed his throat yesterday in the presence of his wife and a neighbor.

Dr. Linn came here six months ago from New York state, where, in 1917, he helped organize and later commanded the first troop of the New York state constabulary. He was dismissed from the service in 1919 by Governor Smith on complaints of his personal conduct.

Linn then returned to the practice of medicine in Brockport and Arden, N. Y. In 1924 he was charged by a former nurse of violating the Mann act, but the trial in Washington ended when the couple closed. Later while living with his wife in Blenheim, N. Y., he was shot through the arm, and accused her of attempting his life.

Members of his family attributed his death to continued ill health.

Rev. Henry Smith Dies at Riston

The Rev. Henry Smith died at Riston this morning in his sixty-seventh year. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, William of Chicago and Henry of Newark, N. J.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Edward Elsworth of St. Remy, Federal on Wednesday, May 4, from the home at 2:30 and at 1 o'clock from the St. Remy Reformed Church. Interment in St. Remy Cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Smith was a son of the late William Smith who for over half a century was secretary of the Ulster County Bible Society and the Ulster County Sunday School Association, and at his death he was succeeded as secretary of both associations by his son. The Rev. Mr. Smith was an ordained minister of the Reformed Church and served as pastor in various places. At one time he was pastor of a Reformed Church in Sullivan county, and also in Montross, near Peekskill.

An activity of the Bible Association and Sunday School Association he was very active, and because widely known throughout Ulster county by his work as secretary of those organizations. He was a man of high degree and was held in great esteem by all who knew him.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the club house when the casket will be placed in the hearse and taken to the cemetery.

Annual Campaign Of Y. M. C. A. Will Be Held in May

Twenty Team Captains Meet and Choose Their Team Associates—Campaign Executive Committee to Meet Wednesday—Some Features of "X" Work in Kingston.

Announcement of the annual campaign of the Y. M. C. A. to be held in May was made today by the directors of the association. The preliminary plans were made some days ago, and a start toward the organization was made, but announcement was deferred until today because of the Y. W. C. A. Campaign.

In the absence of President Charles Ramsey, Frank Thompson, vice president, has enlisted the services of a campaign executive committee. This committee will meet on Wednesday, upon Mr. Ramsey's return to the city, and make all plans for the campaign. Meanwhile an organization for carrying on the campaign is being developed by the four division managers, C. A. Baltz, George E. Lowe, W. H. Niles, and C. S. Treadwell.

The twenty team captains selected met at noon today, and chose their team associates. A keen interest in the forthcoming campaign was manifest. William C. DeWitt, who has carried on some phases of the work during Mr. Ramsey's absence, said:

"The Y. M. C. A. of Kingston has enjoyed one of the best years in its history. A large program of activities has been conducted. More men and boys than ever before have participated in its work. The building has been and is the center of activities, social, religious, physical and educational, for a constantly growing number of young men and boys."

"The Y. M. C. A. has a program for every man and every boy ten years of age and over," J. C. Porter, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, stated this morning. "For the boys, the program is four-fold, seeking to give the boy opportunities for the development of his social nature, his intellectual faculties, his religious nature and his body."

"It seeks to cooperate in all this work with the home, the church, and the school. It has a program for the boys 10 to 14, the boys 15 to 17, and the older boys 17 to 21. In the boys' clubs, Bible classes, in hikes, in socials, in camps, and in many other ways the Y. M. C. A. conducts a vital program for boys of all ages, whether school boys or employed boys."

"For the young man in his twenties, the Y. M. C. A. has a program of physical training, mental development and religious growth."

2,500,000 Russians Await Call to Arms; Soviet Forces a Threat to Half of World

Trouble may be brewing on almost every mile of Russia's far-flung border, but the Soviet has ready one of the most dangerous armies in the world, all under command of Voroshilov, successor to Trotsky. Infantry and artillery units, considered on a par with the best in the world, are pictured above.

By NICHOLAS GOLPIN.

International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, (U-I-N Special).—The greatest army in Europe is now at the command of Soviet Russia.

It's a far flung, well equipped army of greater comparative power than the German Imperial Army before the war.

Exact figures are unavailable. The war office has denied the assertion of the British War Secretary that there are ten million reserves, but a conservative estimate places the number of men under arms and available for immediate mobilization at two and a half million. Voroshilov, Minister of War, in a high command of the Soviet forces, in a public speech, boasted of 60,000 men under arms, 100,000 of which are non-commissioned officers. It is safe to say that there are at least three reservists for every active soldier.

The army is divided into three corps: the regulars, territorials, and reserves. As high as 500,000 men a year can be put through the reserves. The better reservists are sent to cadet schools and later military academies for commissioning as reserve officers.

Russian strength does not lie in men alone, although those under arms are well trained. Vast munition factories, for which many of the technical experts have been drawn from Germany, are ready to start war production. It is estimated that a million rifles, five hundred million cartridges, and five thousand machine guns could be added to the Russian stores in a year's time. An actual declaration of war would probably increase the theoretical production.

Russia has a powerful air fleet, too. There are close to 2,000 flying machines available, and twenty factories, now operating, could easily be converted into war purposes.

The Soviet is conducting experiments in poison gas, and her factories and laboratories are now said to be in a high state of efficiency.

"We have invented an anti-gas mask, a new mask that will resist all known poisons," boasted Voroshilov in a recent address.

Tanks, too, are being made, and practically every other known weapon used in the great war or its vestiges. The navy, too, has been rehabilitated, and is a greater force than any of those of neighboring countries.

Russia has publicly adopted an unprovocative attitude toward foreign nations. Causes for war, as witnessed the latest exchange with the Poles.

Rumania and Poland look with the same suspicion on Russia that the Soviet looks upon these countries. Both countries carry heavy armaments. The danger of war from these quarters is mentioned by Russians in official speeches. North of Poland are three little States, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia, each a potential spark of an international blaze.

War is almost certain to break out in some quarter, though at the moment of writing, all disputes are dormant.

Perhaps Russia believes that a strong army and navy will force her neighbors to hold peace at all cost. Perhaps she knows that war is inevitable, and is determined to come out victor, no matter from which point of the compass it comes.

Chinese Government, are studiously avoided. Yet the Russian propaganda goes on unabated.

Yet on every front there are rumblings. In China, Soviet aid has been given to the Cantonese forces. Relations with the Peking forces are still current that Russian strength will be thrown with the Cantonese against the Northerners.

Russian influence is being felt in India. Alleged Soviet agitators have time and again threatened British dominance there and in Persia. There are boundary disputes in the Caucasus.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 2, 1927.

Music "hath charms," as the poet has said, but there is room for doubt as to whether it provides "a sovereign way of reforming the character" of young criminals fished out of the Russian underworld. The patients are likely to require stronger medicine, more lasting in its effects, including training with morals as its basis. However, everybody will wish the enthusiastic Russian dealers in music-medicine all the success that may be possible.

In describing President Coolidge as a "homely" man, Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Premier of Great Britain, did not refer to his looks but to his characteristics. On the other hand, when the British speak of a "fine woman" they do not refer to her characteristics, as we do, but mean that she is large and handsome. Such widely differing usage among peoples who speak the same language and to a large extent read the same books is remarkable.

In New York University's Hall of Fame the busts of six more Americans will be unveiled on May 6. Listed alphabetically they are John James Audubon, William Ellery Channing, David Glasgow Farragut, Benjamin Franklin, Washington Irving and Mary Lyon. The first five names are well known; most of them very widely, but nearly everybody will have to be told who Mary Lyon was. It is explained that she founded Mt. Holyoke College and was "one of the first of her sex in America to work for the higher education of women."

The animated dispute as to who is "responsible for prohibition" continues. It has been widely attributed to "the influence of the good women of America" and the woman vote has been offered as the rock-foundation of its perpetuation. But a particular group of women, the W. C. T. U., boldly claims and insists on its sole right to the honor. And now Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, authoritatively announces: "The Methodist Church is responsible for prohibition, which never would have come without our leadership." In all this vociferation of the numerous claimants it is noticeable that nobody admits "responsibility" for nationwide bootlegging, for poisoned liquor and deaths therefrom, for increased alcoholism, or for the demoralization of hip-flasking youth of both sexes. The heralded good fruit is widely claimed; the evil fruit is as widely ignored.

BOREDOM AND ITS CURE.

One inevitably thinks of the Snyder woman and her lover as one reads the following quotation from the remarks of an English physician addressed to a group of English clergymen:

"There is more real wretchedness, more torment driving men to folly, or what you persons call sin, due to boredom than to anything else. Men and women will do almost anything to escape it; they will drink, drug themselves, prostitute their bodies, sell their souls, take up mad careers, organize absurd crusades, fling themselves into hot hopes and crazy ventures, torment themselves and torture other people, to escape the misery of being bored. Anyone who discovers a cure for boredom will put an end to more misery and tragedy than all of us persons and physicians put together."

And what is boredom? It is the loss of interest in one's work and a consciousness of the futility of ordinary amusements, after all of these latter have been experienced too often and nothing new seems to be left for trial. This is a malady which which practically every one is afflicted at times, and to keep it at arm's length, so to speak, is a considerable part of the battle of life. The women of prosperous families are particularly subject to it because they have too little to do that is really worth doing. This seems to have been at least a part of the logic of the transportation of the Snyder woman.

The most complete cure is offered by genuine religion and the sense of duty. The love of useful service, the cheerful acceptance of life as it is, these drive it. But even the men or women without religious conviction can flee from boredom and find a large measure of contentment in steady and interesting employment. Though men save for a lifetime in order to be set free from it, though too many unthinking captives of folly hate it as the convict hates prison bars, labor in the chief healing balm for mental ills; it is, after all, the great restorer and rejuvenator, the very salvation of the world. Though too little recognized, its effect on restless minds, ever buffeted by the winds of passion when beyond the harbor of an enduring interest, is incalculably wholesome. It is as if a cooling spiritual dew had descended upon man's fevered brow from a heavenly realm where useful service to others is the beloved law of life.

CARRIAGE AND SUCCESS.

I spoke once before about a chap who had been having rather poor success in his work as an engineer.

A friend meeting him few months later noted that although his clothes were still a bit shabby, that there was something different about him.

Slapping him on the back, he congratulated him on his success.

"How do you know I've had some success? I haven't told anybody yet."

"Simply by your carriage, the way you were walking along the street; head up, chest out, and so forth."

Now what about posture? Man walks in the upright position, and in those with erect posture is found the greatest degree of health.

Why? Because in the properly expanded chest lies the best chance of avoiding tuberculosis, and a weakened heart is further hindered by faulty depression of the ribs. An erect posture helps to maintain sagging coils of intestine and so improves abdominal circulation.

Whereas a stooping position favors a drooping of the abdominal organs, and consequent sluggishness of circulation.

The typically poor posture, according to Dr. Hall, is a slouching attitude with knees slightly bent, lower abdomen prominent, thus drawing the small of back forward, shoulders stooping, and the weight of the body on the inner side of the feet instead of on outer side.

Now the remarkable thing about this poor posture with its attendant evils is, that the development of one set of muscles will practically give you the ideal posture.

As suggested once before, simply stand sideways to your mirror, and do just one thing. Draw your abdomen in as far as you can.

What happens? A real transformation.

The head is erect, the shoulders back, the chest stands out, and you are actually proud of yourself.

All this happened because you drew your abdomen in. Thus if your shoulders were drawn in all the time you would have an erect carriage.

The simple exercise that will do this for you is to lie on the back and raise both legs slowly, with knees straight, until they are almost at right angles with the body.

Repeat this eight times increasing one each week up to sixteen times. Do it night and morning.

A few weeks will make a real difference in the abdominal region. This tightening of the abdominal muscles gives you a corset of muscle, and you thus attain the erect carriage.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

Mary Graham Bonner

SPRING FROLIC

"I haven't told you yet about the spring frolic of the fairies," said Daddy, soon after dinner.

"It is a late spring frolic, you see."

"This year they had it the night before last."

"For days before this frolic the fairies had been hunting, and, of course, they found quantities of them."

"Once every year at just about this time—between the spring and the summer, the fairies have what they call a spring frolic."

"So of every kind there was some specimen, and they knew just how to arrange these flowers."

"They put them all over the fresh green grass, and here and there they scattered young green ferns."

"It made the grass look like a soft carpet of all the prettiest colors in the world."

"Then all was ready for the party."

"And now the fun began."

"First of all, they had the Maypole dance."

"It was really wonderful. There were all the lovely wild flowers which they had gathered, and upon them the moon was shining, and then all the fairies, so exquisite and so graceful, were dancing around the Maypole."

"It was very beautiful. But, to continue, the Maypole dance is simply one of the many delightful things about their spring frolic."

"After the dance is over, when, of course, the Fairy Queen is proclaimed queen of the May, the sports begin."

"You see, every one feels just like exercise after such fine weather, and they all have all kinds of races and games. Last of all comes the frolic."

"Is that a special game?" asked Nick.

"I thought that you just meant the whole party was a frolic, and because it was given in the spring it was called a spring frolic."

"Well, of course," said Daddy. "The whole party is a real spring frolic."

"But they do have a special frolic before the party is over, and that consists of races and hurdle jumping."

"They have small hurdles placed every little distance on the race track."

"The race track is covered with flowers, and the hurdles are always covered with flowers also, and then all the fairies run and jump over this course, while the Fairy Queen who is racing at the time sings jolly songs to help them hurry."

"The fairy who wins this race has the honor of leading the Maypole dance for the following spring frolic, and after the whole party is over the Fairy Queen presents each little fairy with a lovely crown of flowers."

Based on His Pipe

It was quite dark that evening when Mr. Gregory set out to walk downtown, and he noticed that it was particularly dark beneath the trees standing near a certain house in which lived some friends whom he frequently visited.

As he neared this house, it happened that he lighted his pipe, and, in doing so, incidentally lighted up his face with the glow of the match.

"Hello, Match Dicks," called out four-year-old Billy from the porch.

"Why, hello, Billy," answered Mr. Gregory.

"How did you know it was I?"

"Oh, I knew you did so soon as you turned on your pipe," said Billy.

An Escape

The boy had never seen a circus before, and, sure enough, he was walking around a marquee.

Suddenly one of the clowns lifted up the flap and stepped outside for a little air.

Running to the ticket taker, the boy shouted, "Hey, mister, yer clown's here!"—The End.

GAS BUGGIES—Anybody Here See a Satchel?

AFTER A FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR THE SATCHEL CONTAINING THE SELF-STARTER FOR HIS COMPRESSED AIR CAR, WHICH DISAPPEARED DURING THE ROUGH-AND-READY SETTLEMENT OF SOME INDIGNANT MOTORISTS' DAMAGE CLAIMS, HE BECAME CONVINCED THAT SOMEBODY HAD SLIPPED ONE OVER ON HIM.

SEE, I TOLD YOU THIS WASN'T OUR SATCHEL. OURS IS GONE, AND I DON'T NEED THREE TRY'S TO GUESS WHO GOT IT. IT WAS THAT BUNCH OF BOLSHEVIKI WHO TRIED TO TRIM ME FOR A FLOCK OF NEW PENSERS, BECAUSE THEIR HACKS DIDN'T HOP OUT OF YOUR WAY QUICK ENOUGH. BELIEVE ME, WHEN I FIND 'EM, I'LL FLATTEN 'EM OUT 'LIKE FOOTPRINTS.

WASN'T I STUPID TO STAND THERE AND LET THEM GET AWAY WITH THE SATCHEL? BUT IT WAS ALL SO SURE, I WAS TOO SURPRISED TO THINK ABOUT WATCHING THEM.

WHENEVER GOT IT MUST'VE GRABBED IT WHILE I WAS TRYING TO HAND YOU THE JACK HANDLE. WHAT A DIRTY, LOW-DOWN TRICK TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF A LADY WHEN SHE ISN'T LOOKING. WHY DOESN'T THE CAR START? MAYBE THAT CORK IN THE AIR TANK ISN'T TIGHT!

DON'T YOU FRET... I'LL GET THAT SATCHEL BACK... I KNOW WHERE TO LOOK FOR IT. WHEN I FIND OUT EXACTLY WHICH GUY GOT IT, I'LL GO TO WORK ON HIM RIGHT. I'M NOT WORRIED...

BUT THEY DON'T KNOW IT CONTAINS OUR SELF-STARTER WHICH WILL BE RUINED IF THE SATCHEL IS OPENED. WHAT IF THEY OPEN IT?

Danger in Hardening Glass

About 30 years ago it was discovered that glass might be rendered exceedingly hard by dipping it in oil when at a certain temperature. The particles, however, seem to be put in a state of high tension, and the whole may suddenly fly into a thousand pieces.

Frank Rosen

The famous blue rose, Veltheim, has semi-double purple-rose flowers, turning to steel-blue upon opening, with white and dark rose shading. The flowers are not ugly individually, but they are rather trying in the mass. They look best with pale yellow or white variegated beside them.

Retention of Crows

The Department of Agriculture says that the only practical way a crow may be encouraged to talk is to confine it in a quiet room and upon entering that room say one word. By repeating this practice the bird will learn the word. You can gradually increase its vocabulary.

A new custom is springing up

Everywhere in America, today, food buying habits are changing. Women are abandoning the "shopping" habit. For all their food needs, they are turning to A & P. Each has discovered that better quality and greater values are rarely found elsewhere.

Financial and Commercial
New York, May 2 (AP).—Heavy buying of the low priced rails, several of which attained their highest prices in years, monopolized speculative interest in today's stock market. The general list opened heavy, but turned upward before the end of the first hour, and seemed to gather strength as the session progressed.
Reports of increased Mississippi river flood damage brought about some liquidation of the southwestern rails, but apparently had little influence elsewhere. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans, but there appeared to be plenty of funds available at the renewal figure of 4 1/2 per cent. The Federal Reserve report of brokers' loans for the week ended last Wednesday, which will be made public after the close, is expected to show another slight increase.
Buying of Chicago Great Western, Peoria and Eastern and Chicago and Eastern Illinois was associated with rumors of potential mergers, but the identity of the purchasers was not revealed. Strength of the St. Paul and Chicago and Alton issues presumably was founded on hopes of a successful conclusion of reorganization plans. Hudson and Manhattan was run up three points to a new high peak price despite recent denials that the stock was being bought by trunk line interests desirous of obtaining an entrance into New York city.
Heavy buying of General Motors, after an early period of heaviness, was associated with unconfirmed rumors that members of the finance committee at their meeting this afternoon would recommend the payment of an extra cash dividend of $2, action on which will be taken by the directors, May 12. Purty Baking B. National Biscuit, Schulte Stores, Coca Cola (new), and Federal Light and Traction all reached new high ground for the year, or longer.

Good Deed Rewarded
Garwood Laanema, a former living near Brown City, Mich., saw a horse with protruding nails lying in the middle of the road. Thinking that he would save a miserly misfortune of a positive, Laanema got out of his car and waded through the mud of the road to salvage the shot. As he was about to climb back into his car with the luck emblem he saw a postman's half buried in the mud. The purse contained $200 in bills.—In dispatches News.

Home "In Possession"
Max Snyder, sixty-one old Corbin (Calif.) gardener, drove his one-horse stage to Los Angeles to attend the funeral of a friend. "Caught in the act" he was immediately put in jail in an unoccupied house. But the horse and Max had pleasant dreams with Mrs. Snyder, owner of the house, a prospective owner to the place, the following afternoon, and discovered an old and half-bred horse in his living room.

Flood Relief Dictator Veteran in Relief Work

HENRY M. BAKER

When Mr. Baker came to the Red Cross, disaster work meant little more than giving emergency aid to sufferers in tornadoes, hurricanes, fires, floods and other calamities. The new director rapidly developed the system, co-ordinating Red Cross work with the government, developing a service that makes it possible to muster emergency services at a moment's notice through committees in all communities, building up disaster committees in chapters everywhere and enlarging operations of the service.
Often spectacular operations have included such astounding feats as launching houses, swept from their moorings by floods, and towing them back by motor-boats; replanting acres of valuable orchards that have been uprooted by storms; rescuing live stock and assisting farmers to get their crops planted. The airplane is playing a role of increasing importance in relief work, both for reconnoitering and transporting supplies.
Mr. Baker was educated in Australia and worked his own way through the university. Later he did post-graduate work in social economy at the University of Missouri and at the St. Louis School of Social Economy. He is the author of the only disaster relief manual ever compiled, revised by the Red Cross this year and re-distributed to its 3,500 chapters as a handbook for use in organizing disaster relief in 1927, at the age of 39.

Dry Agents Raid GreenLakeHouse
Prohibition agents raided what is known as Guthrie's Green Lake Inn House at Green Lake, Greene county, on Sunday, and placed George Guthrie, alleged proprietor, under arrest as well as John Lampman, an employee. The agents seized 900 gallons of alleged whiskey and mash together with a still.
Both men were arraigned today before United States Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly at his office on Wall street, and were represented by Judge Harry E. Schirck who appeared for Attorney John M. Cashin. A hearing was demanded and the case was set down for May 13.

16 Known Dead In Mine Disaster
Fairmont, W. Va., May 2 (AP).—Delayed 24 hours by a fire in the inner recesses of the Everettsville mine, rescue workers today resumed exploration of the blast-torn tunnels in quest upon determining the fate of 77 workers cumbered since Saturday afternoon.
The rescue experts generally were agreed that it was almost certain that when reached, those trapped would be added officially to the 16 known dead, twelve of whom were removed from the mine and the other four killed on the tipple.

Grilling Fails to Weaken Mrs. Snyder on Stand

turning his gaze directly on his former mistress and blushing it riveted on her. "It was the first time he had looked at her since the trial began."

Millard next took to an instance when Albert Snyder was almost asphyxiated by a disconnected gas tube.

"Was that an accident, Ruth Snyder?"

"It was. I tripped over the tube and did not notice it."

"Did you put a poison tablet in his medicine, Ruth Snyder?"

"I did not."

"Did you take a label off a bottle of poison and tell your husband it was poison?"

"What reason would I have for that?"

"Do you want me to answer that question, Ruth Snyder?"

(Silence.)

"Didn't you try to kill your husband several times?"

"No."

"Didn't you tell Gray you wanted to get rid of Albert Snyder?"

"Never."

"Ruth Snyder, why don't you tell the truth?"

Strenuous objection by counsel for the witness, sustained by court.

"When did you first believe Gray intended to kill your husband?"

"When I saw the emerald."

"Yet you did nothing to protect Albert Snyder?"

"I had confidence in my ability to get Gray out of the way."

Heads Confession Allowed.
Mrs. Snyder was then handed the confession she made after her arrest and admitted authenticity of her signature on it.

"What parts, if any, of this confession are true?"

"My name and address."

"What else?"
